Churning out music for almost a decade, Chris Komus aka Lo Progression is a psychedelic trance producer from Winnipeg, Canada. Focusing on producing progressive psy/house/tech house/and minimal sounds as Chris Komus, the full-on sounds under Lo Progression with a release on Sundance Records, and now a dubstep project under the name Dink Bridge; his sound is versatile, eclectic, and always evolving. Having experimented with various other genres of music prior to psytrance, Lo Progression borrows from a variety of genres and infuses it into dance-floor heavy, epic, and loud rockin' psychedelic music to melodic, groovy, techy and progressive sounds of progressive house and progressive psy, and symphonic cinematic and dark dubstep.

With a busy schedule of gigs on the Canadian prairies, both as a Live PA act and also as a DJ act, Lo Progression is known as one of the key players in bringing psytrance to Winnipeg.

He's booked for Motion Notion 2010. He has opened for Infected Mushroom (Sept '07 and Mar '06), Hallucinogen (June '07), Nuclear Ramjet (Feb '08), and played at Connect Festival in Saskatchewan (Aug '07 & '08), and opened for minimal tech acts such as Ryan Elliot (Dec '07) and Maetrik (Apr '08) as well as dubstep acts Excision, Datsik, Vaski, and Ill.Gates in 2009.

Lo Progression is also involved in pushing the psychedelic and dubstep sounds as co-promoter and resident DJ of Winnipeg Psychedelic Productions, the premier crew in Winnipeg currently promoting psychedelic trance and dubstep.
